

ACORN PREPARATION

A Fun Learn-By-Doing Workshop
with Kumeyaay Instructors

Saturday, November 22, 2025

10:00 – 5:00

Tecate Community Museum

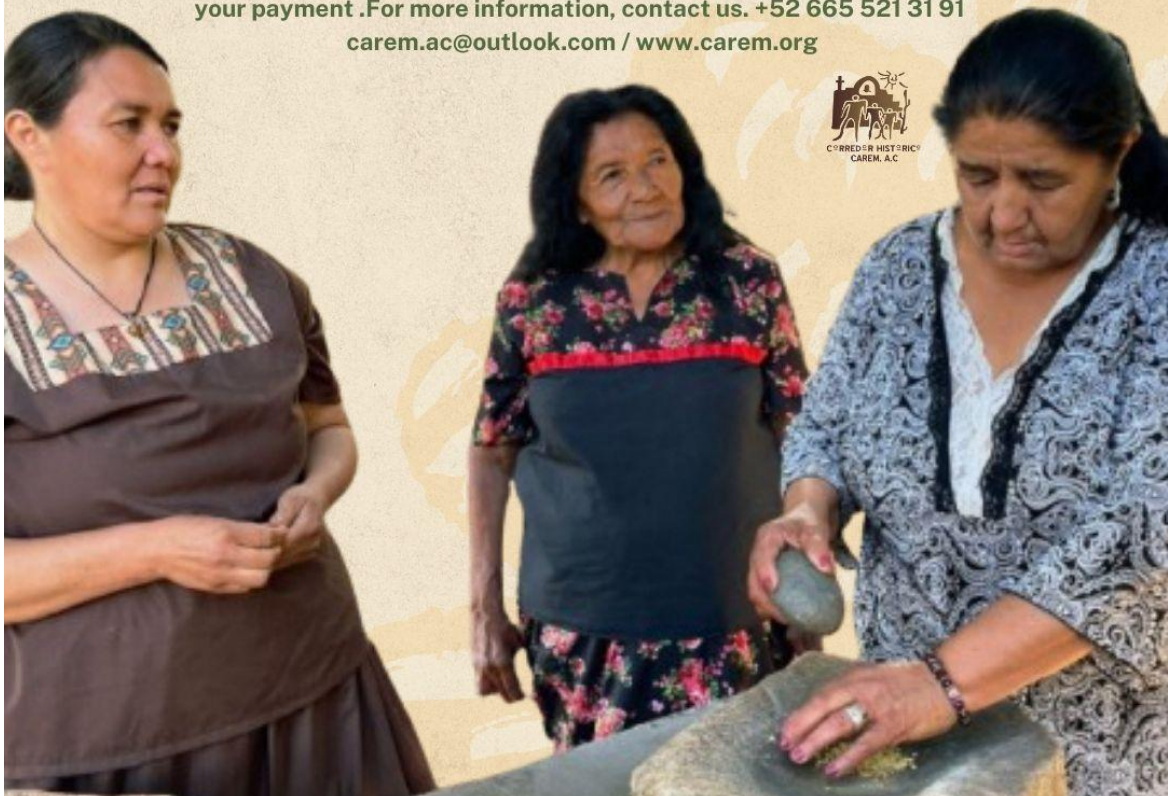

Have you ever seen acorns on the ground under oak trees in the fall and wondered how native peoples turn them into nourishing food?

Join us for a rare opportunity to learn, directly from local Kumeyaay cultural specialists, all the steps in the preparation of this important food that has sustained native communities for thousands of years.

The $60 cost directly supports our Kumeyaay teachers and includes a delicious lunch. Beautiful hand-made Kumeyaay baskets will be used in the process and will be available for purchase directly from the artisans. The event includes a talk by anthropologist Michael Wilken-Robertson, author of Kumeyaay Ethnobotany.

To reserve your spot, please submit the enclosed registration form with your payment. For more information, contact us. +52 665 521 31 91
